

Rockefellers Take First Step Toward Action for Divorce

New York Governor, Wife Separate After 31 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his wife have parted in the first step toward a divorce to end 31 years of marriage.

The decision to dissolve the union of the Philadelphia heiress and the wealthy, potential Republican presidential candidate was announced Friday night in a terse statement issued on behalf of both.

A spokesman said the agreement to separate was "amicable." A political aide to the governor said the divorce would "absolutely not" affect Rockefeller's plans to run for reelection next year.

Although Rockefeller has not publicly acknowledged it, he is considered a strong possibility for the 1964 GOP nomination for president.

Statement Issued

The terse announcement of the separation and divorce plans was issued from the Rockefeller family offices in Rockefeller Plaza and read:

"It was announced today that Governor and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller have arrived at an agreement of legal separation.

"It is anticipated that the terms of the agreement will be incorporated into a subsequent decree of divorce.

"Gov. and Mrs. Rockefeller were married in 1930. They have five adult children.

Property Settlement

"There has been an agreement property settlement and Mrs. Rockefeller will continue to have a New York apartment at 810 Fifth Avenue. Governor Rockefeller will reside at the apartment of his brother, Laurence S. Rockefeller."

The governor is 53 and his wife 54. The couple have three sons and two daughters, all living away from home, and eight grandchildren.

All except Michael, the youngest son, are married. He is now

Finns Under Red Pressure

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—Renewed Soviet pressure for Soviet-Finnish consultations on joint defense was viewed gravely by the Finns today.

A source close to Finland's government explained that its policy has been "to avoid, if possible, an agreement with the Russian view that there really exists an immediate threat of war in the Baltic area."

"However," he said, "it now looks as if we have been driven into a one-way street."

Russian Move

The Soviet prod took the form of a declaration by First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov to Finnish Ambassador Euro A. Wuori in Moscow Thursday. Kuznetsov said "alarming news" made a threat of West German aggression seem even worse than on Oct. 30, when Moscow first asked for the consultations. He claimed there was a direct threat to the security of both nations and called for joint talks as soon as possible.

The news he cited came under three headings:

1. The visit of West German Defense Minister Franz Joseph Strauss to Norway, like West Germany a member of the North Atlantic alliance, and his talks there on military cooperation.

2. Imminent North Atlantic Treaty Organization maneuvers off the Baltic islands of Denmark, another member of the alliance.

3. Reports in Danish newspapers that a Danish-West German agreement on a joint command would soon be reached.

The Soviet Union's Oct. 30 request for defense consultations was based on the terms of a friendship treaty with Finland signed in 1948.

Regents Approve Action to Oust U. W. Fraternity

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin Board of Regents Friday confirmed a faculty decision to oust the Phi Delta Theta fraternity from the campus for refusing membership to Jews, Negroes and Orientals.

The faculty approved earlier a resolution ordering the fraternity off the campus by Sept. 15, 1962. The fraternity may not pledge candidates for membership after Monday and may not initiate new members after Dec. 31.

The regents trimmed the physical education requirements at the university, favoring a plan to exempt all students after six weeks of required physical education except for those who need remedial work.

The board reversed a faculty proposal that all students meet certain requirements before they would be exempt from the classes. Presently, men students are required to take one year of physical education and women, two years.

The regents took no action on loyalty oaths, allowing their previous objections to stand on the requirement that all students applying for loans under the National Defense Education Act must take the oaths.

Approved was a proposal that Sheboygan's new Wisconsin extension center be erected on a Highway 28 site a quarter of a mile west of the city limits. The Sheboygan county board originally had picked a site near Plymouth but reconsidered at the regents' request and selected the one approved Friday.

Stronger Hand Seen in Congo For U Thant

Delegates Differ On Extent of New Authority on Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A move to give acting Secretary-General U Thant stronger authority to deal with the Congo crisis appeared sure today of U.N. approval. But delegates differed on how far it should extend.

Corridor predictions were that the Security Council would approve a resolution calling for vigorous U.N. action to end secessionist activities in the province of Katanga and deal with other trouble spots in the Congo.

The Western powers objected that a resolution by Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic dealing with Katanga alone was too narrow in scope.

Wider Scope Urged

They insisted that U Thant and the Congo command should be empowered to deal with other mutinous areas, such as Kivu Province where Congo troops believed headed by leftist leader Antoine Gizenga killed and butchered 13 Italian airmen.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson asked that council action be postponed until Monday to give time for consultations on a "suitable resolution."

Meanwhile, a request by the U.N. commander in the Congo for more soldiers to deal with increasing violence was questioned by India, whose 8,700 troops make up more than a third of the entire U.N. force in the Congo.

Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon took issue with the request made by Maj. Gen. Sean McKeown, head of the 15,400-man force, at a private session of the 18-nation Congo Advisory Committee summoned Friday by U Thant.

Yacht Hit by Storm Will Resume Cruise

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The embattled Rowdy, a 60-foot yacht that survived 12 hours of pelting by huge Lake Erie waves and severe winds, will continue on its way shortly, its owner says.

"We hope to be under way in a couple of days, as soon as the carpenters can get to work on it," said the yacht's owner and skipper, Aurelian F. Wigle, after the boat was towed 45 miles to shore Friday. It is now docked in the Buffalo River.

Damage to the yacht, which was based in Detroit and bound for Florida with four persons aboard, was only about $150, Wigle said.

His mother, Norma Wigle, 68, said, "We were walking around in two feet of water in the cabin all the time. Dishes were flying high, wide and handsome, along with anything else that wasn't nailed down."

They carried placards that read "Iowa students fasting for peace," and "we're behind Kennedy's peace race." Fourteen of the students are from Grinnell College, Iowa. The 15th is a Grinnell graduate now attending Columbia University in New York.

Kennedy read of the student demonstration while traveling from Seattle, Wash., to Phoenix, Ariz. He told White House press secretary Pierre Salinger to call Washington and have officials at the White House invite them in.

"We had an interesting talk," Bundy said. "They expressed their concern about the dangers of the thermonuclear age, and their hope that the United States would take the lead in the peace race."

Grinnell Students Enter White House in Peace Quest

WASHINGTON (AP)—A band of college students, picketing and fasting since Thursday to "show our concern and demonstrate our willingness to work for peace," has called at the White House at President Kennedy's invitation.

They got a long conference with a top administration official—and an offer of orange juice.

The students passed up the juice. It would have broken their 72-hour, water-only fast.

They used the 75-minute conference with McGeorge Bundy, Kennedy's special assistant for national security affairs, to propose that the President convene a national student conference on issues of peace and war. They were assured that the President would be told of their suggestion.

The White House visit Friday night was unusual—perhaps unprecedented. The broad sidewalk outside the executive mansion is a favorite spot for pickets supporting a variety of causes. But veteran White House guards said

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An 11-year-old girl, orphaned in a shipwreck she barely survived, was off a hospital's "critical" list today and apparently gaining strength that may enable her to tell what happened on the ill-fated ketch Bluebelle.

A lot of people—including FBI and Coast Guard investigators—want to know.

Attaches at Mercy Hospital said no one would be allowed to question sunburned, blonde Terry Jo Duperrault of Green Bay, Wis., until she feels up to par.

Sole Witness

The child, taken semi-conscious from a life raft bobbing on the Atlantic Ocean off the Bahamas, is now the only witness to the Bluebelle's breakup with seven persons aboard.

The skipper, Julian A. Harvey, survived the Fort Lauderdale charter boat's destruction as he had several other brushes with death in the air and afloat. But he committed suicide Friday leaving a note that said: "I got too tired and nervous. I couldn't stand it any longer."

Harvey said after being taken to Nassau Monday that the Bluebelle's mainmast snapped, yanked down the smaller mizzenmast, and tore holes through the deck. Then, he said, fire broke out and he had time only to launch a boat and a raft before the 60-foot ketch sank.

Devices on Ocean Floor?

Underwater Microphones May be Used in Detecting Submarines

BY VERN HAUGLAND
WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposal to bug the ocean floor with thousands of underwater microphones to warn against submarine intruders is under consideration by the Navy.

The underwater alarm system, 500 to 1,000 miles offshore, would be fordingly expensive.

A less expensive technique of underwater surveillance also was under discussion this week at a secret Navy meeting on underwater sonar techniques. This system, using the still secret towflex technique, would involve towing the sounding device, called a hydrophone, from a blimp, helicopter or surface ship.

Secret Conference

By putting distance between the underwater microphone and the towing craft the craft's own noise would be less likely to interfere with the detection device.

Rayburn Paid Final Tribute

President Kennedy To Land by 'Copter For Rites at Bonham

BONHAM, Tex. (AP)—The great and the humble prepared to pay final respects today to Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

Rayburn, the only congressman thousands in northeast Texas district could remember, is dead.

Not without tears, they talked about Mr. Sam... patriarch of the blackland cotton country... father of rural electrification... prime mover for the New Deal legislative program of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

President Kennedy was due by helicopter from Perrin Air Force base shortly before the 1:30 p.m. funeral service in the First Baptist Church.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, accompanied by his wife, headed a list of 23 U.S. senators also coming.

Truman Present

Former President Harry S. Truman flew from his Independence, Mo., home to pay his respects to "Old Sam, who always treated me like he should have—always told me off when I needed it."

Rep. John McCormack, D-Mass., came after designating more than 100 House members to attend the funeral. They include the Texas delegation and senior members of both parties from all the other states.

The Rev. H. G. Ball, 74-year-old pastor of the Primitive Baptist Church at nearby Tioga, Tex., of which Rayburn was a member, was to conduct the service. He said it would last not more than 35 minutes, perhaps less.

Dr. Bernard Braskamp, chaplain of the House of Representatives, was to say a prayer and recite the 23rd Psalm.

Acting Police Chief And 2 Others Guilty Of Shining Deer

PORTAGE (AP)—Clifford La Mar, 43, the acting police chief at Lake Delton, and two other men were convicted Friday night of shining deer near here last weekend.

The trio also was convicted by a Columbia County Court jury, which deliberated only 25 minutes, of unlawful possession of firearms larger than .22 caliber in a deer hunting area.

Judge Daniel G. O'Connor set sentencing for Tuesday.

The other two are Marvin Selchow, 33, and Austin Luke, also 33, of Portage.

La Mar was appointed Lake Delton police chief after Robert Kole was wounded seriously in a gun fight with three Chicago hoodlums in August. Sauk County Patrolman James Jantz was killed in the shooting.

Gladys Ives Brainard To Present Concert

Retired Lawrence Teacher Returns To Artists Series for Second Time

A return to the concert platform after 10 years absence will be enacted by Gladys Ives Brainard pianist, on the third of the current Lawrence Community Artist Series Nov. 30

Miss Brainard, who closed her teaching career at Lawrence College in 1951 with an Artist Series performance, will appear in Memorial Chapel for a second time in that role

In so doing she is one of a handful of artists to have had repeat engagements on the Lawrence series. In the last 30 years, only organist E Power Biggs, violinist communicating her vision of its Isaac Stern and the Ming-Leedham profound meaning and loveliness Trio have appeared more than to generations of students who

She also is one of the few artists to be selected from Lawrence's own community. Appearing earlier have been alumnae soprano Lucille Meusel and Shirley Emmmons, the faculty Ming-Leedham Trio and pianist Arthur Shattuck whose original home was in Neenah

At the time of Miss Brainard's retirement after 33 years of teaching at Lawrence, President Nathan M. Pusey said to the college's board of trustees: "A great artist and an unusual person, she has certainly been one of the best teachers of gifted students in piano that this or any conservatory could have. Music for her was no casual affair but a way of life, almost one might say a religion, and she succeeded in

Supermarkets in Kansas City Halt Meat Processing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Supermarkets in greater Kansas City have stopped processing meat as a result of a strike against one chain, Safeway Stores.

Local 576 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher workmen struck Safeway Stores Thursday night and indicated picketing would spread unless agreement was reached on a new contract.

Harold Audsley, chief negotiator for the supermarkets, said "there was a danger of loss of supplies of beef and pork if the picketing spread and the meat cutters were not available to process it."

Major point in dispute reportedly is a union demand that its members not store managers, stock meat counters on Sundays.

Reed as the junior partner, is summoned to the side of his girl friend (Joan Hackett), who is involved with some mothers protesting the destroying of a small park for a parking lot. Her actions infuriate Loring Smith, the city's commissioner of capital projects. And the battle is on.

How Canada Was Conquered

Freeman's Dry Ham Order

Armour & Company, the big Chicago meat packer, has challenged the order requiring a lower water content for hams shipped in interstate commerce and challenging the claim of Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman that hams of high moisture content are not in the consumer's interest.

The battle over ham is an interesting one and important because it may affect the market for ham and the consumer's enjoyment of this product.

About a year ago when the Department of Agriculture was headed by Ezra Taft Benson, two regulations regarding the production of federally inspected hams were adopted. Under these new regulations packers were no longer required to remove the fluid used in curing to restore the ham to its original green weight. Instead they were permitted to employ a new solvent which not only speeds up curing but also if allowed to remain in the meat to 10 per cent of green weight makes the ham more nourishing and tender according to the packers. Such products have been sold for some time by intrastate processors who are not subject to the U.S. Department of Agriculture authority. After an investigation as required by law the department agreed to allow interstate packers to do likewise.

Later on when the department came under Orville Freeman questions were raised about this ruling. Soon the department launched a new series of hearings and finally, last September, announced it planned to rescind the 1960 provisions and restore the old ones.

It is this order which Armour & Company has challenged in court.

Barron's, a national business and financial weekly points out that no one has challenged either the wholesomeness or the appeal of the moisturized ham but some have claimed that the people are being overcharged. In court an Armour executive says that the picking to increase the moisture content makes it cheaper to process the ham. He said that the retail ham prices are lower this year as a result while hog prices actually are higher.

This statement was supported by George L. Clements, president of the Jewel Tea Company. He has testified that in the first half of 1961, despite a 15 per cent increase in the price of hogs, the retail price of hams sold in Jewel stores averages 10 per cent lower than they did a year ago while the tonnage sold jumped by 30 per cent. He says that this is evidence that the forces of competition adjusted the prices of the new ham so that the consumer is not paying ham prices for water and the increased sales indicated the consumers' preference.

It is odd that hearings conducted by the Department of Agriculture a year ago should bring about an order approving moisturized hams while a second hearing by the same department only a year later results in a complete reversal of the findings of the first order. Barron's Magazine hints that the department under Secretary Freeman has been tampering with due process of law and suggests that there may be politics involved in the reversal of the Benson order. The magazine reports that while hearings were held in eight cities last spring the department attorney who presided failed to function as a trial examiner and disclose his findings. Two months after the hearings ended the secretary appointed a three-man committee to weigh the evidence. This panel has never made an official report. However, the magazine says the panel has expressed views in private and Armour now is claiming that the trio of experts has agreed that, subject to proper labeling, they would approve moisturized ham.

About two months ago the Post-Crescent, in commenting upon the Freeman order, accepted the statement that consumers would pay less for ham in the future because of the removal of the moisture. This belief was based upon the theory that honest hearings had been held and that they had been honestly evaluated. However it now appears that there may have been some very tricky political use made of what purported to be hearings for the finding of fact. If this is true, of course the people should know it. While Federal Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy in Washington has refused to issue a temporary injunction as asked, he left the door open for arguments based on the charge that Freeman acted "arbitrarily and capriciously." It is hoped that the case will be pressed to expose any such trifling with the law as has been implied.

BY FRANCIS RUSSELL

Jeffery Amherst spent a mere five years out of his 80 in America. Yet those five years, in which he rose from obscurity as a staff officer to commander in chief of His Majesty's forces in North America, weighed more than the other 75. And all the glitter of those five triumphant years was a reflection from the brilliance of the first two. Amherst's major achievements, which place him just below Marlborough and Wellington in the great triumvirate of British generals — were bounded by that day in 1758 when he arrived in Halifax Harbor to be commander in chief at the siege of Louisbourg, and the September morning in 1760 when he received the unconditional surrender of Canada from the governor of New France.

In the French and Indian Wars there were more showy British generals than Jeffery Amherst, but none more able. Coolly and calmly Amherst executed the three-pronged attack that made Canada British. The story of Amherst and his classic campaign is told here by an author known for his historical analyses.

To England's first secretary, William Pitt, the future of the island kingdom lay across the Atlantic not in dynastic quarrels on the Continent. The first step in his grand design must be to drive the French from North America. Before Canada could be conquered, however, Louisbourg must be recaptured and Fort Ticonderoga reduced. The fortress of Louisbourg controlled the St. Lawrence lifeline. Fort Ticonderoga dominated the approaches to Montreal from the south.

Siege Successful

When Amherst assumed his command, the British and colonial forces against Louisbourg numbered about 12,000, the naval crews somewhat more. Behind the fortress lay a French force of 3,000 regulars, 1,000 militia, a large band of Indians and 2,600 seamen. The French counted on balancing their lack of numbers by their location. A jagged stone-capped shore line and turbulent sea approaches.

It was this barrier that Amherst's amphibious force, under James Wolfe, succeeded in penetrating. After a siege of seven weeks, the French commander was forced to surrender without terms. The first step in Pitt's conquest of Canada had been achieved.

On the day Amherst occupied Louisbourg he wrote to Pitt: "If I can go to Quebec, I will." But the ink was scarcely dry on his letter when he received the belated news that a great British army had been shattered in a hopeless frontal attack against Ticonderoga's fortifications. Of James Abercromby's 15,000 men, almost 2,000 were lost in six hours. His promising subordinate, Lord Howe, had been killed in a preliminary skirmish.

Takes Full Command

Amherst realized he would have to divert forces to aid Abercromby before something worse happened. Skirting the Berkshires on his way to Albany he met Abercromby's demoralized army. The defeated general was recalled, and Amherst made commander in chief of all the British forces in North America. Laying his final plans for the conquest of Canada, Amherst saw it as a three-pronged drive: from the east up the St. Lawrence to Quebec; from the south to Montreal by way of Ticonderoga, from the west a blockade by way of Niagara and Oswego to seal off any French retreat.

Amherst gave Wolfe full responsibility for the Quebec campaign. Brigadier John Prideaux was to re-establish Oswego — demolished by the French three years earlier — and then combine with St. William Johnson for an attack on Fort Niagara. Amherst left the most difficult task to himself, that of attacking Canada by way of Ticonderoga and Crown Point.

Changes Plans

Amherst's intention was to flank Ticonderoga by marching past it to the north, and setting up his siege lines on the shore of the lake. But as he reached the fort with its zigzag impalements, he saw a stir and flutter of white uniforms. The French were withdrawing into the fort.

He needed no second look. He ordered his troops to the old entrenchments, spent the night setting up his cannon and erecting fortifications. At sunrise his cannonade set the roof of the fort afire. The French came swarming out like ants from a trodden anthill.

As the ring of cannon closed in, Robert Rogers' Rangers scoured the woods, picking off French heads when they appeared above the walls.

But the French commander of the fort had orders to abandon both Ticonderoga and Crown Point at the approach of the English, and retreat to the more defensible Isle aux Noix just beyond the entrance to the Richelieu River. He followed his instructions to the letter, withdrew 2,500 men, and left behind a holding garrison who blew up the fort as they escaped.

Niagara Surrenders

Ticonderoga fell on July 26, 1759. Two days earlier and 300 miles away, Fort Niagara had surrendered. Meanwhile, at the apex of the military triangle, Wolfe was planning his unfortunate Montmorency Falls attack of July 31.

At Crown Point, which Amherst found blown up, he stayed to consolidate his position, and waited for his own navy before advancing on Isle aux Noix. He was maneuvering in the unknown, for dispatches from the other fronts were much delayed. It was not until Oct. 18 that he was notified of the fall of Quebec and Wolfe's death in the battle a month earlier. By the time the first frosts had come, Amherst knew the year's campaign must end with the Montreal heartland still intact.

Boxing in Montreal

Spring brought the familiar problem of raising money and men, and somehow Amherst managed it once more. Again he planned a three-way advance. Brigadier James Murray, who had succeeded Wolfe, was to move up the river from Quebec. On Lake Champlain, Col. William Haviland was to take Isle aux Noix and break into the St. Lawrence Valley. In a surprise move, Amherst would replace the lethargic Thomas Gage and advance his main force of 11,000 men to La Galette to strike unexpectedly at Montreal by a quick thrust down the St. Lawrence.

For a moment Amherst's plans hung in the balance because Murray's garrison was besieged in the citadel of Quebec, and only the timely arrival of ships from England with supplies and reinforcements saved him from capitulation. It was not until late in July that Amherst was able to complete the organization of his expedition.

Good Staff Work

After 200 years, Amherst's plan still seems an unexampled demonstration of coordinated staff work. As Francis Parkman noted: "Three armies advancing from three different points hundreds of miles apart, by routes full of difficulty, and with no possibility of intercommunication, were to meet at the same place at the same time or, failing to do so, run the risk of being destroyed in detail." And they met!

Murray's passage up the St. Lawrence was as uneventful as a cruise. Haviland's force found Isle aux Noix easy to crack, and he arrived opposite the island of Montreal on Sept. 6 and at once communicated with Murray.

It took Amherst five days of wandering through the intricate channels of the Thousand Islands before he reached La Galette. Reducing the midstream island, Fort Levis, in three days, he came to the most perilous part of the voyage, the rapids of the St. Lawrence, where 84 soldiers were drowned in the unusually high water.

Reach Montreal

From the Cedars rapids on, though, it was a smooth journey to Lachine, which Amherst reached almost simultaneously with Haviland. He brought his army across the river at once, and marched them the nine miles to the walls of Montreal, where they camped on the plain above the town.

The situation of Commander Vaudreuil of Montreal, encompassed within the town by three armies, was hopeless. His militia had deserted him; of his regulars, there were only 2,400 left, and Montreal was paralyzed with refugees. Sending an aide to discuss terms, he proposed a cease-fire until it could be determined if peace had been made in Europe. To the defeated French Amherst would give no terms, not even the customary honors of war, because of the atrocities of their Indian allies.

"I have come to take Canada, and I will take nothing less," was the message that Amherst sent back to the French governor, Vaudreuil had no choice. On Sept. 8, 1760, he ceded Canada unconditionally to the British crown.

A City-County Conflict

In the larger counties of Wisconsin, excepting Milwaukee, county boards are frequently so large as to be unwieldy and inefficient. Each town in the county is entitled to a representative as is each village and each city ward. Thus a fairly large county with one large city will find itself with a board ranging from 30 to 70 members. Madison is an example where the board has almost 100 members, and is growing steadily.

Recently people in the city of Sheboygan learned that if they want their business run properly they must do it themselves. They had been leaving it to others. There the county board had only 36 members and the city of Sheboygan was represented by eight. Thus the supervisors representing towns and villages had a good thing and they knew it. Unfortunately they took too much advantage of it and now may lose their power. Not long ago the county board voted to move the University of Wisconsin Extension Center from Sheboygan to Plymouth. This naturally caused considerable commotion in Sheboygan but the proposal failed because the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents rejected the Plymouth site. The board then voted to ask the Regents to consider a site near the village of Kohler. No decision has been made on this proposal as yet but the people of the city of Sheboygan are apparently tired of the whole business and they have decided to take over the management of the county board as their population apparently entitles them to do. The city council voted to increase the city's 8 wards to 30. This proposal supported overwhelmingly by the city council would give the city 30 members on a 38-member board. This change gives the city control of the board and the authority to locate the Extension center. Sheboygan has been easy going and trusting. Apparently the city saw no reason to increase the expense of the county with additional members when they could trust their neighbors to handle the business satisfactorily. Things went along well for some time but the supervisors from the towns and villages were not elected to represent the people of Sheboygan and they had no intention of doing so. Sheboygan had in fact really placed temptation in the way of its neighbors by neglecting their plain duty. Now Sheboygan will be looking out for its own interests. It will be sending delegates to a county board that will represent the city even though the board is larger and more cumbersome than before. The people of Sheboygan county as well as Sheboygan city will enjoy better government in the future. "What you want done well, you should do yourself."

Trade Exchange Policy Started

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Nov. 14, 1861.

The Government has issued permits for parties in Rhode Island to trade with loyalists on the Southern coast. Vessels are fitted out for that purpose with supplies of various kinds, among which are salt, clothing and other necessities expected to be exchanged for cotton.

This is a new feature in government policy and may lead to important results. Sen. Simmons of Rhode Island has been the principal mover in this matter.

It may be that these vessels and others fitted out also will follow the expedition and as soon as an opening is made and permanent footing obtained in South Carolina and Georgia, cargoes of cotton will be at once shipped to Liverpool and other points.

This is a very important movement and it has the full sanction of the Government.

Proposed Tax Revision Includes Withholding

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Fortunately or unfortunately, according to individual states, the significant proposal to install a withholding system of collecting state income taxes has become buried in the details of the new tax revision bill and subordinate to the dispute about how new revenue shall be raised.

It is fortunate for those Democrats, union spokesmen and others who ardently desire the withholding device as a means of disguising the impact of the personal income tax increases they want to achieve.

It is unfortunate for those many persons, including conservatives generally and employers, who are aware that the pay check deduction mechanism will inevitably open the path to higher and higher income levies in the future, because the impact will be less felt in weekly installments than in an annual chunk.

THE ARGUMENT

There are several suggestive changes in the discussions about withholding today and those that were heard during the fierce fight on the subject earlier this year. Today the advocates of the change scarcely bother to continue their claims that this will significantly aid in the elimination of the tax cheat.

That never was a very safe claim, because it contradicted on its face the proud boasts of the tax department about its efficiency, on the one hand, and reminded skeptics about the enormous corps of auditors and other enforcement agents now employed, on the other. It wasn't very safe, moreover, because it would invite proof later, in a comparison of the results of the first year of payroll deductions.

Today most of the withholding champions simply defend it as a painless way for the average man to get his taxes paid, as government on the installment plan. Such gains as are claimed to be likely turn out to be upon examination the reaching out to the pockets of non-residents who are employed in Wisconsin and who are not now paying for the very good reason that as non-residents they do not vote here or enjoy most of the other benefits of Wisconsin constituents.

The careful listener at the legislative hearing on the administration's omnibus tax revision bill, moreover, was interested in the phrasing of some of the labor organization spokesmen as they testified. They denounced, as always, the idea of sales taxation, even in the mild Nelson bill, because it would affect lower income earners. But in the same breath they championed the governor's income tax increase plan which would affect lower income earners proportionately more than others. The meaning was in their simultaneous demand for the income tax increases with withholding.

MEANING

One inference, at least, is justified. It is that these leaders of labor have no confidence in the willingness of their dues-payers to pay taxes out of their own pockets. The increase must be achieved by employer deduction before the wage reaches the earner and paid on his behalf to the state treasury — to be sure that it will get there.

Skeptics will be tempted to make another inference. These labor leaders will find in the wage deductions the opening for wage increase demands to compensate, to maintain the "take home pay" level, and thus to pass on the tax boost to the employer and ultimately the purchaser of products or services.

Whether a withholding system will actually be enacted cannot now be guessed. The proposal will stand or fall with the general tax revision bill. At the moment that measure is in considerable difficulty. Earlier this year some conservatives were willing to pay the price of withholding to get a general sales tax. If the sales tax drive fails, there is very little chance that the employer collection system for income taxes can be achieved.

perault, 49, his wife, Jean, 38, Green Bay, their son, Brian, and Mary Harvey, wife of the latter.

The Bluebelle's sinking Sunday came a little more than two months after Harvey took out a double indemnity life insurance policy on both himself and Mary with the Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn. A $25,000 policy on his wife named Mary as beneficiary. A $25,000 policy on himself was taken out by her behalf.

Harvey, tall and ruggedly-built, survived two previous ship sinkings, two airplane crashes and an automobile plunge off a bridge into water.

Former Wife Drowned
He apparently was married at least four times.

One of his wives, Joan, drowned in her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Green of Washington, D. Harvey told officers at the base that he was a clear during the plunge and the two women were trapped in the car.

Mrs. Ethel Harper of Fort Myers, Fla., said she was married earlier to Harvey and bore two sons, one of whom she said is Julian Jr., 18. She told her son the other son died.

He said she was upset at being checked by newsmen who learned the telephone number after she inquired of Miami authorities for arrangements for Harvey's funeral. Mrs. Harper said she regretted "after being divorced" Harvey in the 1940s.

Doubts Harvey's Story

Julian Harvey was a former newspaper Star reporter. The son of a quoted Harold Pegg of Hollywood, Fla., owner of the Bluebelle, as saying of Harvey: "I think Harvey made up his story. His story didn't make sense as a seaman. I don't know whether he went berserk or what. He never had an accident but I don't think it happened the way he said."

Miami son of Harvey—Lance, look word of his father's death sadly but dry-eyed. He told Miami Herald interviewer that his father had taught him seamanship and he hopes some day to run a fleet of sightseeing boats himself, even though he is being huddled on a raft in Casper Bay with his father.

Space Platform Orbit; Doesn't Carry Payload

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A satellite space platform was scheduled to orbit today but failed to do so, the agency said.

The piggyback Ranger 2, launched on an intended million-mile round trip into space, failed to reach orbit after a second stage settled into a parking orbit around the earth at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour.

After coasting for 14 minutes on this course, the Agena was to have reignited to increase the speed to 23,800 miles an hour and kick the 675-pound Ranger 2 free on a deep-space trajectory.

But the second ignition apparently did not occur and the Agena and Ranger 2 continued in an orbit ranging from 145 to 94 miles from the earth.

Officials were studying data in an attempt to determine if the two vehicles separated.

Panama Wants Early Action on Canal Ownership

PANAMA (AP)—The National Assembly has unanimously demanded a new treaty with the United States which would fix date for the United States to turn over the waterway to Panama.

The assembly resolution was adopted within 24 hours of the publication of correspondence between Presidents Kennedy and Roberto Chiari on negotiations for a new treaty.

Chiari on Sept. 8 had written Kennedy that their governments should try again to resolve long-standing differences over the Canal Zone, starting this time from scratch. Kennedy in a letter Nov. 2 agreed the differences must be discussed thoroughly and frankly and indicated his government would be ready for talks in 1962 after it restudied current and future needs from the canal.

The resolution called for replacement of the present treaties—under which the United States holds the canal zone in perpetuity—by a new treaty satisfying 13 "minimum aspirations" of the Panamanian people. These included affirmation of Panamanian sovereignty over the Canal Zone and a fixed date for Panama to take over the canal.

No date was specified.

Much Dissension

Europe Leads U. S. in Religious Group Talks, Church Leader Says

BY JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP)—Dissension among religious groups in the United States has given many foreign churchmen a distorted picture of our country, a prominent American layman reports after a two-month tour abroad.

Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will report his findings in detail Monday at the NCCJ annual meeting in Washington.

"Misunderstanding of the U.S. conception of the separation of church and state was widespread among European church leaders," Dr. Jones said. His NCCJ, whom Dr. Jones conversed included Augustin Cardinal Bea, Vatican secretary for Christian unity, for two main reasons.

Help Conflicts

Statements and actions of religious leaders in Europe, he said, sometimes unwittingly contribute to religious conflicts here in America.

These mostly concern church-state relations and, while easily understood by a European audience, can be just as easily misunderstood by Americans whose view of proper church-state relations is different. Thus European church leaders often are unaware that a statement could have unfortunate results among followers of their faith in America, he said.

His second reason for explaining the American attitude toward church and state was simply "to seek better understanding between nations."

Far Ahead
He said some of the churchmen in Europe are "far ahead of us" in interfaith dialogue—particularly those in West Germany and the Low countries.

Dr. Jones said mutual understanding—and its resulting good—can come about only if communication lines are opened internationally in the same way his organization strives to promote church and interfaith discussions in America. Zimmerstrasse each side buried Some of the churchmen with 10 grenades.

Rockefellers in First Step for Divorce Action

in Dutch Guiana with an archeological expedition.

The impending divorce will be the second among the five sons of the late John D. Rockefeller Jr. Winthrop Rockefeller, a younger brother of the governor, was divorced from Barbara (Bobo) Sears in a spectacular court suit several years ago.

No New York Divorce

Mrs. Rockefeller was reported staying in New York Friday night, and her husband at their estate in Tarrytown, N.Y.

Although neither was available for comment, a family spokesman said the divorce would be sought outside New York where the only ground for such action is adultery.

He said it also would be reasonable to assume that Mrs. Rockefeller would petition for the divorce. The spokesman admitted the couple were living apart when the announcement was made but declined to say when the decision had been reached to seek a divorce. The spokesman said the separation agreement was signed this week in New York.

Railroad Fortune Heir

Mrs. Rockefeller, the former Mary Todhunter Clark, is an heir to a railroad fortune.

The Rockefellers were married soon after the governor was graduated from Dartmouth at a wedding attended by 1,500 guests. In addition to the 20-room duplex apartment on Fifth Avenue, the Rockefellers also maintain the Tarrytown residence, one in Seal Harbor, Maine, and another in Washington, D.C.

Their children are Rodman, Mrs. Robert L. Pierson, Steven, and twins, Michael and Mary Rockefeller.

Until the last few months, Mrs. Rockefeller had been a constant companion of the governor on his many public appearances.

In March 1959, she underwent minor surgery, which led to speculation that her recent absence from the governor's side was due to complications from the operation.

Mrs. Rockefeller was the second of eight children and attended various fashionable academies for young women. She met the governor during a Maine vacation while he was attending Dartmouth.

As a wedding present, Rockefeller's multimillionaire father gave the couple a one-year, round-the-world trip.

Although Mrs. Rockefeller had many times described her role as the wife of a political figure as a "supportive" one, she confessed gaining pleasure from "being a partner with your husband in the enterprise."

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law is in this country to do a series of stories on political and economic matters in America.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

(AP Newsfeatures)

Mrs. Sarah J. Hale wrote in 1863.

"Go your way and eat the fat and drink the sweet and send persons unto them for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto the Lord" . . . Can we not then . . . establish our yearly Thanksgiving as a permanent American National Festival . . . Putting aside the sectional feelings . . . would it not be more noble, to become national in unity when we offer to God our tribute of joy and gratitude . . ."

For 17 years, the ladies' magazine editor fought for a uniform Thanksgiving, believing it would unify the nation. She urged it on governors and Presidents. Later that year, President Lincoln issued the first national proclamation since Washington: "I do, therefore, invite my fellow citizens in every part of the United States . . . to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next as a day of Thanksgiving and praise to our Beneficent Father . . ."

Until the last few months, Mrs. Rockefeller had been a constant companion of the governor on his many public appearances.

Dowler, Nitschke Will Join Packers For Ram Game

Hornung Not Expected to Play; Agajanian Drills on Kicking

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Boyd Dowler and Ray Nitschke, the Packers' contributions to the 32nd Division, will play against the Rams in City Stadium Sunday.
They're coming in from Fort Lewis, Wash., and will return there immediately after the game.

Coach Vince Lombardi announced. Only impossible flying conditions could keep them out of the game.
Nitschke flew in and out of Chicago for the Packers' win over the Bears last Sunday.
Lost for Sunday, however—unless he drops out of a clear sky—will be Paul Hornung, the Packers' star halfback and kicker, who is at Fort Riley, Kan. Hornung probably won't be available for the Lions at Detroit Thursday either along with Cowler and Nitschke.

While the Packers face two "quick" games, the major and only current problem is Los Angeles.
The No. 1 lossee is Hornung, whose two empty boots will require four feet to fill—Tom Moore, a 23-year-old sophomore, and Ben Agajanian, a 42-year-old veteran of 25 football seasons.
Moore will start at left halfback, and he's far from a stranger as a Bay runner Tom carried 42 times in relief of Hornung and Jim Taylor and gained 253 yards for the team's best rushing average—an even 6 yards per carry. What's Moore, Tom has line with 14 points, while Verlyn Dobberstein put in 13 from his backcourt position. The Foxes grabbed a 16-3 lead in the first period.
The visitors increased it to 28-12 at halftime.
LeRoy Fieck led the Freedom attack with 12 points. Dick Peters contributed six.

The visitors increased it to 28-12 at halftime.

Patriots Nip Oakland to Stay in Race

BOSTON (AP)—Boston defeated Oakland 20-17 Friday night when defensive end Leroy Moore made an end zone recovery of a punt which caromed off the goal post in the final period.
The victory kept the Patriots in the thick of the Eastern Division title race in the American Football League.
Oakland's Wayne Crow kicked from his end zone and the ball glanced off the upright, flipped crazily backward in the air and rolled toward the corner. Moore, a 235-pounder, outraced a defender to smother the ball just before it rolled over the end zone side line.
Until then it appeared George Fleming's 16-yard field goal early in the third quarter would provide an upset triumph for the two-touchdown underdogs from the West.

Ben Agajanian, placekicking specialist who had been playing with the Dallas Texans of the American Football League, will be with the Green Bay Packers when they play the Los Angeles Rams in Green Bay Sunday.

Appleton's Dennis Babb (13) grabs for a rebound during Friday night's basketball opener at Kimberly. The Papermakers' Al Schmidt flies through the air. Other identifiable players are AHS' Carl Graves and Kimberly's Wes Vander Velden (40). Kimberly won, 59-58.

lot of hopes but no assurances that the six-team circuit can make a go of it.

The league was dealt a crippling blow when Topeka Kan., Burlington, Iowa, and Des Moines lost their major league affiliations recently. The other clubs, Lincoln, Neb., Cedar Rapids, Iowa and Fox Cities, Wis., still have their agreements.
All six teams were represented at the meeting which league president Ken Blackman said ended with a unanimous desire to operate in 1962 if working agreements can be obtained all around.

"The minor league presidents will be meeting at Tampa, Fla. on Nov. 26 and we hope that something will tell then," Blackman said.
"We can come to no decisions before then and will not meet again before the Tampa meeting."

Blackman said it has been the history of the Three-I League to be faced with a crisis over big league help.
He said no action was taken toward a possible merger of the remaining Three-I teams with other leagues—the Midwest and Northern leagues had been mentioned—if Topeka, Burlington and Des Moines fold up.

Steeler and Cleveland Victories Would Mean 3-Way Tie in East

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The National Football League's tight Eastern Conference title race could get even tighter Sunday.
It all depends on the Cleveland Browns and the Pittsburgh Steelers. If both the Browns and the Steelers win, three clubs will be deadlocked for the lead. The Philadelphia Eagles and the New York Giants are now tied for the No. 1 spot.
The Browns run headlong into the smarting Eagles in Cleveland Sunday. Pittsburgh tangles with the Giants in New York.
The Giants and the Eagles have 7-2 records, the Browns 6-3. A victory for the Steelers would square the record at 5-5 and give them the satisfaction of knowing they'd defeated the NFL's best defense.
Cards at Baltimore
Other activity in the Eastern Conference sends the St. Louis Cardinals (4-5) to Baltimore for an interconference struggle with the up-and-down Colts (4-5) of the Western Division, and the Washington Redskins against the Cowboys in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas (4-5). The Redskins will try to snap a 17-game losing streak, nine of them this year.

The Green Bay Packers, perched all alone atop the Western Conference, throw their 7-2 record on the line against the Los Angeles Rams (3-6) in Green Bay.
Regardless of the outcome, no body can as much as tie the Packers. A Green Bay loss, however, coupled with a victory by second-place Detroit (5-3-1) at Minnesota (2-7) would leave the Lions only a half game off the Packers pace.
Detroit and Green Bay play each other Thanksgiving Day.
The Chicago Bears (5-4), anxious to get back in the thick of the Western race after losing 31-28 to the Packers, visit the San Francisco 49ers (4-4-1). The 49ers have only a tie and three losses to show for their last four tests.
The Browns-Eagles clash likely Cardinals (4-5) to Baltimore for the passing of an interconference struggle with the up-and-down Colts (4-5) of the Western Division, and the Washington Redskins against the Cow-

Manitowoc Jolts Menasha, 86-55

Aulik Leads Way as Ships Score 50 in First Half

MENASHA — Manitowoc rolled for 25 points in each of the first two periods and cruised to an 86-55 victory over Menasha in the season-opener for both clubs here Friday night.
The Jays will attempt to regroup their forces and even their record at 1-1 when they invade West De Pere tonight.
It just wasn't Menasha's night. The Jays threw the ball away frequently, were victims of the fast break on other occasions and from the floor, only made 14 baskets in 60 attempts.
Their only salvation was at the free throw line. The Shipbuilders were guilty of 30 fouls and the Jays connected on 27 of 44 tries. Manitowoc made three less charity points but was more effective, canning 24 of 34.

Mark Pawlowski, another of the bright spots for the Jays, was next with eight.
Menasha's Paul Laus had four fouls in the first half and picked up his fifth midway through the third period. The Ships Bill Duebner garnered Nos. 4 and 5 in the first 25 seconds of the third canto.

The Bluejays' only lead was at 2-1. Their guests then broke for five straight points and except for a spell in the third period, gradually widened the spread.
The score was 25-12 after the first quarter and 50-24 at the intermission. Dale Aulik was the peskiest Shipbuilder in the first frame, making 12 points. Five Ships had four or more points in the second.

Although down by 26 at the intermission the Jays came out swinging in the third period and launched a comeback.
They tallied five of the first seven points for 52-29 and then after Manitowoc's Greg Sands sank a 10-foot field with a few eddies in a basket and free throw, seconds remaining to give Little upset.
The outburst narrowed the score to 17 points at 55-38. But with 16 points. Lasee scored 21 at that point the tide turned and for De Pere.

Polman Shot Wins It; Lee Scores 31

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor
KIMBERLY — Tranquilizers, anyone?

They've come to be a "must" for all fans who expose themselves to the nerve-tingling suspense of a Kimberly - Appleton High School basketball opener.
Friday night, Kimberly guard Rick Polman climaxed the third straight season-launching cliff-hanger between the two intense rivals by pumping, through a 15-foot jump shot in the last four seconds to give his team a 59-58 victory.

In 1959, the Papermakers opened with a triple-overtime (one round of free throws) win over AHS. Last year, the Terrors squeezed out a 59-57 home-court win.
Last night's game had all the earmarks of a precedent-breaker as the favored Papermakers dominated the game for most of the first three quarters. Appleton (with one starting letterman compared to five for Kimberly) missed its first nine shots from the field and four of its first six free throws and trailed by 10 points in the second period, by nine at halftime and by 11 (39-28) midway through the third quarter.

Catching fire, the Terrors scorched the nets for a 12-1 edge during a 3-minute span to effect the game's first deadlock (40-40) at the end of the third quarter. A zone press helped unnerve the Papermakers.
During the breath-taking fourth period, the lead changed hands 12 times before Polman sank the most important basket of his career. It enabled Dave Genzmer to get his Kimberly coaching career off on the right foot and ended the Dick Emanuel-coach-er's herculean bid for an abundance of height (with players in the 6-foot-3 to 6-5 1/2 class) a couple of 5-9 guards were the game's dominant figures. Besides firing in the winning goal, Polman led the Papermaker scoring with 15 points.

Sparks Mike Lee produced the blistering total of 31 points as he keyed the visitors' comeback with timely and sensational shot-making. AHS' only letterman scored 14 of the team's 16 points in one 4 1/2-minute stretch, made five of eight shots during the final quarter and switched seven of his 13 baskets from long range (shooting at a 41 per cent rate overall).

49ers Revise Their Arsenal for Bears

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers, spectacularly unsuccessful the last time they attempted to demolish the Bears with Red Hickey's shotgun, are revising their arsenal for Sunday's clash with Chicago.

It was the Bears' 31-0 victory over the 49ers at Chicago Oct. 22 that started the San Francisco drought that now has reached four games without a victory.

The Bears, with a 5-4 record, need a win to stay in contention in the National Football League's Western Conference race.

The 49ers are 4-4-1.

Hickey has promised some surprises. The fans are demanding some. Coach George Halas of the Bears expects some.

"I figure the 49ers will be using the T formation quite a bit against us," Halas said.

Closely Guarded

Could be. The 49er camp was guarded as closely this week as an academy award ballot box.

And when the drama unfolds, the plot well may be T and sympathy.

The Bears' Billy Wade has 14 touchdown passes, second only to Sonny Jurgensen of Philadelphia, who has 17. Rookie Mike Ditka, a leading candidate for NFL rookie of the year, has snared 33 for 771 yards, including nine touchdowns.

Hickey has announced the 49ers opening backfield as John Brodie at quarterback, R. C. Owens at flanker and J. D. Smith and C. R. Roberts at the running-blocking posts, with Monty Stickles and rookie Aaron Thomas at the ends.

But rookie Bill Kilmer, the 49ers' top scorer with 10 touchdowns, will see plenty of action.

Abe Woodson has returned to the 49ers' defensive secondary and there are three changes in the defensive line.

AFL Attendance Up 11 Per Cent Over Last Year

Joe Foss Says Loop Progress Is Ahead of Schedule

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The American Football League is ahead of schedule in its development, commissioner Joe Foss said Friday.

He reported over-all attendance up 11 per cent over the league's maiden season.

"What has happened this season is something we didn't quite expect—the development of a nucleus of at least three, maybe four, solid franchises," Foss said.

Foss admitted that there were still problems in four of the eight cities but he pointed out, "We never looked on this as the critical year. Most of us felt the third year would be the one that gave us a good reading of what lies ahead."

The commissioner was cheered when Oakland's city fathers voted to construct a 25,000 seat stadium. He said it eliminated the one major roadblock in the establishment of the Oakland Raiders as a solid franchise.

"Historically," Foss declared, "It has been proven that no franchise ever prospered by playing in one city (the Oakland Raiders play their home games in San Francisco) and representing another."

Final 5 Weeks

Foss was taking a look at the solidity of the new professional league as it heads into the final five weeks of its second season. Last year the AFL survived a red-ink bath (the loss was about $2,500,000) to sign a goodly portion of the top college stars.

He said Buffalo, Houston and San Diego look definite and apparently Boston can be grouped in there. Buffalo has finished its home season with attendance up 20 per cent although the fans were seeing a team that lost 14 of its 18 home games in two years.

Houston had its first sellout last week and its attendance is up 25 per cent. San Diego's average is up more than 80 per cent—the Chargers in four games already have bettered their total in Los Angeles last year for seven games—115,446 to 110,376.

"Boston had a complete sellout its last game, even turned fans away before the kickoff," Foss pointed out.

Oakland and New York have stadium problems although Oakland has cleared it up for next year and New York will move into the new Flushing Meadow stadium when it is complete—probably in 1963.

"Dallas is averaging 22,000 fans, but there will be problems as long as there are two pro teams here," Foss said. "There simply isn't the population." Dallas also has a club in the National Football League.

Denver has been bitten by its second straight losing team but the intent is for a full recruiting effort for next year. "It wouldn't surprise me if Denver came up with the top rookies in the league," Foss said. "Denver's season ticket sales rose about 150 per cent—the fan interest is there, I think."

Paul Seymour Says Players 'Fired' Him

Claims They Object To Starting Rookie, Doesn't Rap Kerner

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Paul Seymour, out as coach of the staggering St. Louis Hawks, says he has no ill feeling toward owner Ben Kerner because "he didn't fire me—the players did."

Seymour said Kerner "treated me fine, but what are you going to do? You can't fire all the players. They boycotted my choice of Cleo Hill as a starter because he is a rookie."

Seymour, 33, a fiery competitor in his playing days at Syracuse, brought the much-discussed disension in the Hawks ranks into the open Friday. He said:

"It tore my heart out to see the way they were treating the kid. I wouldn't treat a dog the way they treated him."

Bad Situation

Kerner said he had tried to live with a bad situation for two weeks, making peace between coach and team, but finally had to act. Scoring star Bob Pettit was named interim coach.

"I had to try to solve the situation," Kerner said. "I think this is the best for Paul, for the players and for the franchise."

Kerner, who has had an average of a coach a year in his 15 years in the NBA, wouldn't comment on who might get the job. Asked what guarantee he would give the next coach, Kerner replied:

"All I can guarantee him is he'll get fired."

Former Hawk star Slater (Dugie) Martin, told he was rumored a top candidate, said he hadn't been contacted, and added:

"Kerner is a hard man to work for—he'd have to give me a three or four-year contract."

Seymour said one member of the club's big three front line—Pettit, Cliff Hagan or Clyde Lovellette—went to him and said Hill was getting too much publicity and shouldn't be made a starter so quickly. Seymour wouldn't say which one.

Pettit declared: "I don't care to get involved in any argument. There's nothing we want more than for Cleo Hill to be the greatest player in the world. We don't care who plays and who scores as long as we win—and I know I speak for Cliff and Clyde."

Pettit added that he felt certain the club has the talent to win consistently. It lost none of its first 14 games.

Seymour, just starting the second year of a three-year pact at $15,000 the first two years and $17,500 for the third, will be paid in full, Kerner said. Seymour said he had no immediate plans.

Three Menasha players wear bewildered expressions during this second half action in Friday's home game against Manitowoc. The Blejays are Tom Steinmetz (32), Mark Pawlowski (42) and Bob Opsahl (30). Dave Wagner is the Shipbuilder at the right. Manitowoc scored 50 points in the first half en route to an 86-55 triumph.

Packers to Find Out Sunday How They Will Fare Minus Four Stars

GREEN BAY (AP)—How will the Packers do without Paul Hornung? The question will be answered Sunday when Green Bay, minus the National Football League's most prolific scorer, takes on the Los Angeles Rams before a packed house at City Stadium.

The question could be amended. You might put it this way: "How will the Packers get along with out Hornung and Boyd Dowler and Ray Nitschke and Jerry Kramer?"

The quartet of stalwart performers in Green Bay's drive for a second straight western division title will be conspicuously absent Sunday for the first time.

Hornung has traded his Packer uniform for khaki and is on active duty at Ft. Riley, Kan. Linebacker Nitschke is a fixture at Ft. Lewis, Wash., with the 32nd Division and is to be joined this weekend by flanker back Dowler. Guard Kramer is on the shelf for the season with a serious leg injury.

Absorb Punch

That's a lot of talent to extract from one football team involved in a throat-cutting melee in the world's toughest league. The Packers may be the only team in football able to absorb the punch and stay on their feet.

Green Bay, with a game and a half lead in the western division, takes a 7-2 record into the clash with the Rams who are 3-6 but day with two games in five days, climaxed by the Thanksgiving morning game in Detroit.

The Packers, regardless of the outcome of the Ram game, will have the lead Sunday night, but second place Detroit could cut the lead to a half game if Los Angeles wins and the Rams beat Minnesota.

Hard-running Tom Moore will step into the halfback slot vacated by Hornung to share ball totting duty with pilingriving Jim Taylor. Tom Bettis already has demonstrated his take - charge ability as a replacement for Nitschke at middle linebacker. Lew Carpenter takes Dowler's spot with Max McGee doing the kicking.

Golfer Cannot Control Flight of Ball, Judge Says

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A golfer cannot be expected to control the flight of a golf ball, says the Georgia Court of Appeals.

Judge Homer C. Eberhardt, in writing the court's opinion on a damage suit, said Thursday that anyone playing golf assumes the risk of being hit by a ball.

The $25,000 damage suit was filed by J. K. Thomas against R. W. Shaw in Albany.

Thomas claimed he almost lost the sight of an eye injured by a golf ball hooked by Shaw.

The judge wrote "Even so-called experts hook and slice occasionally. To hold that a golf player was negligent merely because the ball did not travel in a straight line as intended by him, would be imposing upon him a greater duty of care than the Creator endowed him with the faculties to carry out."

Doug Sanders Leads Tourney At Mid-Point

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—If he can play like that, I don't see much wrong with that fellow's swing.

The speaker pointed to short-swinging Doug Sanders, the 27-year-old Cedaratona Ga., native who held the midway lead in the 72-hole Cajun Classic tourney today with an 8-under-par 134.

The man's companion in the gallery, replving in the patois of this southwest Louisiana Bayou country, said "I guarantee you he'd better teach them Herbert boys something."

Sanders withstood the pressure from a rash of early finishing par busters—including a course record of 63 by Bob Rosburg—and fired a 67 Friday. It duplicated his opening round score.

The cool-nerved swinger, who plays out of Ojai, Calif., consistently sank long and tricky putts as he sought his fifth tournament victory of the year. Sanders, the PGA tour's third leading money-winner, needs only $4,000 to overtake idle Arnold Palmer in earnings for the year.

Rosburg, a former PGA tilist, was one stroke back with a 72-63—135 while Ken Still, the little-known Tacoma, Wash., pro, was third with 136.

Dutch Harrison Wins National Senior Title

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Dutch Harrison of San Francisco led from start to finish in winning the National Senior Men's Open Golf Championship.

Harrison posted a 4-under-par at La Quinta Country Club Friday for a 72-hole total of 273.

In second place was Ralph Hutchinson of Bethlehem, Pa., who had 284. Al Feldman of Tacoma, Wash., was third with 287.

First place was worth $1,500. Hutchinson won $750 and Feldman $500.

George Greeley, the Trucker's big center, paced the attack with 20 points. Dan Yaeger added 10 points and Jim Hedtke contributed 9 for the winners.

Dale Rudolph paced Peshtigo with 15 points.

The Trucker's shot 32 per cent in the opening game of the season. (They hit on 23 of 72 shots).

The victory was sweet revenge as Peshtigo defeated Clintonville last year, 54-50.

Greeley, who stands 6-6, led all rebounders with 11. Yaeger was next in line with 10.

Tulane Edges Vanderbilt '11'

Green Wave Scores 10 Points in Last 30 Seconds

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It's been a long, L-O-N-G season for Tulane but it's a pretty good guess that there wasn't a happier football coach in the nation today than the Green Wave's Andy Pilney.

Tulane scored 10 points in the final 30 seconds to whip Vanderbilt 17-14 Friday night before 15,000 fans on hand to see Tulane post its first Southeastern Conference victory since whipping Vanderbilt last year.

Vanderbilt punched a touchdown across on Billy Crawford's one-yard smash with five minutes left. A fumble by Tulane fullback Sammy Camp after calling for a fair catch of a Vandy punt set up the score.

The thin crowd began filing out of the huge Sugar Bowl with less than a minute left on the clock. And then it happened.

Halfback Larry McIntyre hit the right side of the Vandy line and suddenly found himself with plenty of running room. He raced down one sideline, cut back across the field and down the other boundary before being pulled down on the Vandy 11, after a 51-yard gallop. On the next play—in, 44-36, and Rechner's trimmed Wisconsin Wire, 41-37. In other back Jack Domingue connected games, Fox Valley Cab edged with end Clem Dellenger with an IPC, 39-37, and Fountain Lumber 11-yard touchdown pass.

Piney then chose to go for a two-point conversion rather than settle for a tie. Domingue flipped points each. Dick Frank led Dag's Drive in with 17 markers.

Joe Rechner and Dick King led Rechner's. The winners trailed, 19-14, at the half but rallied for 27 points in the second half. Rechner pumped in 14 points and King hit 13.

Fountain squeaked by Kafura Electric with a balanced scoring attack. No less than five players — Charles Hemmerman, Tom Fountain, Charles Pond, Dave Goenen and Carlton Busch—led the scoring, all with six points each. Bob Murphy led Kafura with nine.

Harry Eskew scored a basket as the buzzer sounded to give Fox Valley Cab its victory over IPC. Tom Van Wyck paced the winners with 15 points. Joe Hamburger led the losers with 12.

3 New Rules to be in Effect For College Cage Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Three new zone along the free throw lane rules and a code of conduct for college basketball season opens up for free throws. The rule makers felt this would tend to lessen shoving.

The changes were recommended by the National Association of Basketball Coaches and adopted by the National Basketball Committee of the U.S. and Canada last March. They will:

1. Eliminate free throws when a foul is called against a player on offense and in control of the ball. The fouled team will be given possession of the ball out of bounds as is now done in the professional leagues.
2. Stop the clock after every violation in order to give coaches greater opportunity to make substitutions.
3. Create a neutral and buffer

Appleton Man Told to Resign From Lutheran Brotherhood

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A demand that Gordon A. Bubolz, 47, resign immediately as director of the Lutheran Brotherhood has been made by the insurance society's general agents, officials of the brotherhood said Friday.

Spokesmen said that in secret ballots all but two approved the ouster of Bubolz while the Ryden resolution was approved unanimously.

UW Professor Calls U. S. Conservative

"Any law of inalienable rights would say the Constitution protects the 'right' of property, of action . . . must certainly be, Second issue is civilian control, deemed 'unnatural' by any practical political test."

The contention was made by Dr. T. F. Thompson, political science professor of the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center, when he spoke at a half-hour program over WFRV-TV last night. Dr. Thompson spoke on a series of lectures by UW faculty members, entitled "A Conservative View of Civil Rights," pointed out that conservative philosophy has always dominated American politics — conservatives drew the Constitution, recognizing the need for order in society with government control, but were convinced of the need to limit governmental power.

Bill of Rights

"An even greater conservatism forced the 10 amendments we call the Bill of Rights and the limited governmental power between national and state governments," Dr. Thompson pointed to four current political issues from the conservative's chair.

Man Who Outran City and County Police in Auto Chase Jailed

Speeder Hit Train After Outdistancing Patrol Cars

A man who escaped from city and county police after a high-speed chase and later drove his car into the side of a train last September was jailed Friday by Municipal Judge Gustave J. Keller.

James Price, 22, 321 S. Badger Ave., was sentenced to 60 days in jail under the Huber law and fined $100 or 30 days in jail for failure to yield to an emergency vehicle. He was fined $100 or 30 days in jail and his drivers' license was revoked for six months for reckless driving.

The sentences will run consecutively. Price had not paid the fines by this morning.

Price was spotted by Appleton police at 1:30 a.m. Sept. 4 when he passed several westbound cars on W. Wisconsin Avenue. When the police car followed him, he

Appleton Man Admits Station Hold-Up

Also Shot Four Holes in Knotty Pine Wall of Tavern With Revolver

Roger Panko, 20, 1715 W. Spencer, who Thursday night shot up a tavern, has admitted he robbed the Zephyr Service Station, 801 W. College Ave. He is being held in Outagamie county jail.

Panko, who was released from the reformatory at Green Bay about a month ago, was arrested Friday afternoon by Sheriff's Lt. Jack Frenz and, under questioning by Appleton police, admitted taking $84 from a service station attendant at gunpoint about 6:10 p.m. Thursday.

He told police he lost most of the money later that evening in a dice game with two friends.

Shot at Walls

The sheriff's department received a complaint Friday that a man late Thursday evening had shot at least four holes in the knotty pine walls of the Midway Bar, 2566 Newberry Road.

Frenz, after investigating the case, arrested Panko and confiscated an old .22 caliber revolver.

At 3:15 p.m. Friday, Frenz called Appleton police and told them the man may have been involved in the holdup.

Service station attendant Leonard Groeschel, 18, 129 N. Richmond St., identified Panko as the man who had held a pistol against his head Thursday evening during the holdup.

The man at first denied the holdup, but later admitted that he had been drinking Thursday afternoon and held up the service station.

32nd Officer Says Ft. Lewis Is 'Improved'

Autopsy to Find Cause of Death of Tripoli Soldier

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—Training conditions for Wisconsin's 32nd Division have been constantly improving, and will continue to improve," Maj. Gen. Herbert A. Smith, commanding officer, said Friday.

He said conditions protested by Rep. Alvin O'Konski, R-Wis., after the death of Pfc. George W. Kenkkila, 25, of Tripoli, Wis., have been thoroughly checked with each responsible officer.

O'Konski charged criminal negligence by the division's officers and said there was a general shortage of supplies.

No Lack of Food

"There is no lack of food—each man receives a soldier's normal daily ration," the division commander said.

"The issue of clothing to men who did not arrive at camp fully equipped has been expedited."

"In fact, by Nov. 15 most of the problems had been solved except in a few isolated instances."

Undetermined

The cause of Kenkkila's death Thursday was listed on the death certificate as undetermined pending an autopsy. But he apparently "drowned in his own vomitus after becoming nauseated," Maj. Willard Ekvall, division information officer, said.

The soldier had taken part in double-time running. He withdrew voluntarily and collapsed, officers reported.

Vocational Director Gives Views of Adult Discussions

Carl Bertram, Appleton Vocational School director, attended conventions of the American Association for Adult Education and the National Association for Public School Adult Educators in Washington, D.C., last week.

Bertram attended workshop sessions at the educators' convention in the "large urban communities" group, including representatives from New York, Baltimore, Washington and Los Angeles. "We were out of place as far as population was concerned," he said, "but not as far as program. When we began discussing programs we were practically on an equal footing with many of those cities."

Night School

Bertram expressed interest in a program at Joliet, Ill., certified by the North Central Assn. to give a high school diploma in an accelerated night school program. Many adults want a high school diploma, he said, but it would take them possibly 10 to 12 years to get one in night school if they had to put in the time required for a regular program.

Workshop discussions included the problem of training the unemployed who have been displaced by technological changes or automation. Bertram said many of these people have general educational deficiencies which must be taken care of before they can be given vocational education.

The educators also considered whether adult education should include recreational programs.

"I think the community which gives recreation to one administrative group and adult educa-

Precautions Should be Taken If Sensitive to Insect Bites

BY CAPPY DICK

A bed, a chair and a table for a doll house can easily be made from clothespins and pieces of cardboard. They will be a good Christmas present for a boy or girl to make for a little sister.

For the bed shown in Figure 1 use a cardboard box of suitable width and length. Split the ends so they may be folded up for the head and the foot of the bed and cut off some of the cardboard at the sides. Cut four slots in the box as shown in "A" of Figure 1 and push one leg of a clothespin into each so the head and the footboard of the bed are held between the prongs. The footboard of the bed may be turned either up or down, as you prefer. If the legs of the bed are wobbly, put a drop of glue on them where they join the cardboard.

Folded Cardboard

A chair is made from a piece of cardboard folded and slotted as in "A" of Figure 2. The back legs of the chair are complete clothespins with one prong slipped into each slot. The front legs are made from split clothespins. The pins are easy to split by pulling the prongs apart. The prongs which are split off are used as arms for the chair. Glue them on as in Figure 2. Cloth may be pasted on the chair to upholster it.

The table in Figure 3 is made the same manner and attach a piece of cardboard to the tops of them with glue.

Clintonville Fears Loss of Air Business

See Threat in Proposal to End Express Service

CLINTONVILLE — Loss of airline business and revenue to the airline were cited as major reasons for the city's objection to the discontinuance of Railway Express Service at a recent hearing.

City Attorney Robert Otto said the proposed change in service would not make the most advantageous use of the Clintonville airport facilities. Much of the air express would be enplaned at Green Bay.

The hearing began at the Shawano County courthouse, Oct. 13, and originally included testimony in regard to three other locations at Shawano, Tigerton and Wittenberg.

Not Grouped

At that time Otto requested that the hearing be adjourned and continued at a later date, so that testimony in regard to the city of Clintonville could stand on its own merits, and not be "grouped" with testimony of other communities.

According to Otto, the request of the Railway Express Agency would generally withdraw agency service, close its office here, and offer substitute motor carrier service from Green Bay.

Those who testified in behalf of the city of Clintonville were George Zachow, Atlas Conveyor Co.; Arthur Giersbach, Utility Tool and Body Co.; George Brennan, traffic manager of the FWD Corp.; James Hoffman, president of the Clintonville Association of Commerce, and Mayor Louis Krueckenberg.

Others Interested

Clarence Sorenson was the examiner for the Public Service Commission.

Appearing in behalf of the Railway Express Agency was Attorney Elmer Slovacek, Chicago. The only witness for the Railway Express Agency was J. W. Meisner, chairman of the Illinois-Wisconsin Division of the Railway Express Agency.

Farmers Need Government Subsidies, Speaker Says

Outagamie Workers Told Threat To Farm Programs in Vote Switch

SHIOCTON — The farmers of America and Wisconsin need government subsidies to survive in the rising economy of the nation, and farmers should take advantage of the Agriculture Stabilization Service being offered to them by the government, according to Wallace L. Mehlberg, state chairman of the Wisconsin ASC.

Speaking at a meeting of Outagamie County workers that took part in "Operation Contact," a program designed to inform farmers of the services offered and the advantages of the ASC, Mehlberg said that even though farming remains the nation's largest industry it has received only $5 of every $1,000 spent for subsidies by the government in the last 50 years.

Despite the increase in living costs, he said, the American farmer is continuing to get a smaller percentage of the wage earner's dollar spent for food, making the subsidies to farmers a necessity.

Low Average Wage

The farmer has increased production 9 per cent per year for the last 10 years, while the non-agriculture worker has increased only 2 1/2 per cent over the same period.

The 9 per cent annual increase in production should be a minor problem when we consider that more people are living in the world today than have lived since Adam and Eve, he said.

At the present time the farmer is earning an average wage of 82 cents an hour, Mehlberg said, which is not in comparison with the industrial worker. Therefore government subsidies are needed by the farmer to survive the rising costs of producing food for the nation.

Because of the increased voting power of the urban areas, farmers will lose between 100 and 125 congressmen who understand or have sympathy for them. Farmers should band together in their demands on the present administration, he added. Time is running out, he said, for farmers to hold on to any farm program worth a dime.

Ralph Gehring, vice chairman of the county ASC program also addressed the group. He said the ASC programs available on a 50 per cent cost sharing basis with the government. This he added has been the purpose of "Operation Contact".

He praised the group for contacting 700 farmers of the 1,100 farmers in the county that have not taken advantage of the ASC program in the last three years. At present, he said, there are more than 2,000 farmers in the county that have used the services offered by the program in the last three years.

During 1962, emphasis will be placed on the portions of the program pertaining to wildlife area establishment, construction of ponds or dams for wildlife and ditching for waterfowl and fur bearing animals as well as an improved feed-grain program, he said.

The government is not dictating to the farmer what he must do, Gehring said, but is trying to aid them in creating better farming practices by paying one-half the cost of the improvements.

Sewage Treatment Urged in Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE — Municipal sewage treatment for the village was urged by a state board of health agent who addressed a meeting of Stockbridge residents called by Dr. John Knauf, village health officer.

Donald Carter, sanitarian with the Fond du Lac district office of the state board of health, explained various types of sewage treatment, fitting them to the needs of the community, and described methods of financing their construction.

Municipal sewage treatment for the village has long been considered but this was the first concrete step towards its possible inception. Dr. Knauf said the meeting was primarily to feel out public opinion on municipal sewage treatment. The majority of the residents who attended the meeting seemed in favor of it, he added.

Dr. Knauf also pointed out, however, that this may not be a true indication of the community's attitude toward the project, since those favoring it and interested in it would be more inclined to attend.

Aside from probing public opinion, Dr. Knauf said the meeting's purpose was to obtain from the state board of health information on the procedures necessary to form a sanitary sewer district.

25 Year Effort

The state body has for years asked the village to consider municipal sewage treatment. "It's been going on for 25 years," Dr. Knauf said. He also stated that the reasons for his concern was well pollution. Besides polluting the water supply of many village residents, the need for such a government policy for our products competing in the world's markets.

Dr. Knauf said. There are, he stated, negotiations in progress at Geneva, by the continuing balance of payments problem, and by the recent development of world trade blocs, particularly the European Economic Community (Common Market) and the European Free Trade Association (the need for the development of these

Total assessed valuation of the village for 1962 is $5,932,360 compared to $5,763,270 in 1961. A public hearing on the proposed budget is set for 8 p.m. Nov. 28.

Congo Problem Brings U.N. Financial Crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson said Friday the United Nations would be broke and creditless by the end of March unless the "financial crisis" caused by the Congo crisis was settled.

He discussed the U.N. military operations in the Congo during a dedication address for Fordham University's law school building.

European trade groups, it also expects action from the U.S. Government to insure fair competition for our manufacturers in these European and other world market areas.

The U. S. pulp and paper industry, whose 1961 world exports are close to one-half a billion dollars, believes our government should do everything possible to enhance our trade prospects in the growing world markets on a reciprocal basis. It will support revisions of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act to accomplish this end.

Services Maintain Duplicate Facilities

Rivalry Between Army, Navy, Air Force Near to Open Warfare

BY JAMES McCARTNEY
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Rivalry among the Army, Navy and Air Force — amounting at times to open warfare — is visible in the raw in the procurement field.

For example, each of the services continues to maintain its own, independent network of hospitals and medical services — with Army, Navy and Air Force doctors.

A Senate committee has pointed out that more than half of the beds in the hospitals are normally empty.

In city after city in the U S half-empty hospitals of one service are within a few miles of half-empty hospitals of another.

Not long ago the Air Force hospital at Langley Air Force base Va with a capacity of 217 beds was caring for 62 patients six miles away the Army has a

Fourth of Series

141 bed hospital at Fort Monroe, Va with an average of 20 patients

Money Savings

Congressional committees, two Hoover Commissions and the Budget Bureau have recommended repeatedly that medical services be combined to save money.

But the Joint Economic Committee of congress says the "virtu-ating effects of interservice rivalry" have prevented it.

This same situation is duplicated in other ways, creating waste that costs the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

The services have refused to give up separate corps of chaplains — as though they were worshipping to separate Army, Navy and Air Force gods.

One service has a half empty warehouse. Another service rather than using it is building one of its own a few miles away.

One service has surplus property — perhaps blankets. It sells them cheaply as surplus. Another service needs blankets buys them new.

One service has too many uniform buttons but another service buys new ones because they have buttons of a different design.

Military Blamed

The Joint Economic Committee lays the blame on "the desire of the military departments services and agencies to remain autonomous."

Defense Sec Robert S McNamara has attacked this problem by creating the new Defense Supply Agency which will attempt to get the services to gether in the medical field as well as several others.

These examples are cited only to illustrate the depth of competitive feelings that exist among the services, feelings that contribute greatly to McNamara's problems in attempting to hammer out decisions in the national interest.

For the fact is that open rivalries among the services invite political pressures into the Pentagon that might otherwise be absent.

Says a congressional student of the Pentagon, a man who has watched the battles rage for nearly 20 years

Aid of Outsiders

The services frequently seek the aid of outsiders to help fight their battles. Each has built up its own group of congressmen and defense contractors to help them fight for what they want.

The result is that each of the services can — and sometimes does — bring enormous political and economic pressure to bear on Defense Department officials and on the White House itself.

There are indications that this pattern is already shaping up in the Air Force campaign to get McNamara to spend money congress appropriated for manned bombers.

Congress provided the Defense

Department with $514,500,000 it had not asked for — siding overwhelmingly with the Air Force.

McNamara said "no" a few weeks ago, but some congressmen and senators have already indicated that they don't intend to take "no" for an answer.

Watching the Fun

At this stage the Army and Navy are simply sitting back and watching the fun, but it is certain that each has something it thinks is more important to national defense than more planes for the Air Force.

The pressures generated by the services, the congressmen and the defense contractors almost always are in the direction of spending more for defense.

The services want new weapons, more elaborate weapons systems, the contractors want contracts; the congressmen want to keep contractors in their districts busy and to keep employment high.

A classic example of interservice competition with all of its complex ramifications, was turned up by a House subcommittee headed by Rep F Edward Hebert (D-La.)

The case involved an Army-Air Force dispute over two anti-aircraft missile systems — the Army's Nike-Hercules and the Air Force's Bomarc.

Contacts Made

Each of the services made contacts with congressmen and senators, hauled in contractors who would build the respective systems.

Executives of the Boeing Air plane Co., which was to build the Bomarc, told how they contacted Sen Henry Jackson (D-Wash) and Rep Don Magnuson (D-Wash).

"We cover every place we can cover when we have a story to tell," declared Wellwood E Beall, Boeing's senior vice president. On the Army's side, promoting the Nike-Hercules was the Western Electric Co., prime contractor for the project.

Western Electric executives also told of political contacts they made — including Gov Luther Hodges, of North Carolina, now Secretary of Commerce, and a congressman and a senator from North Carolina, where the contracts would be let.

Both companies ran advertisements in Washington, D.C. newspapers extolling the virtues of their systems while congress was debating which system to support with appropriations.

In a serious study of Defense Department organization, the privately financed Rockefeller Brothers Fund reported that interservice rivalry is not fundamentally due to "parochialism" on the part of military leaders.

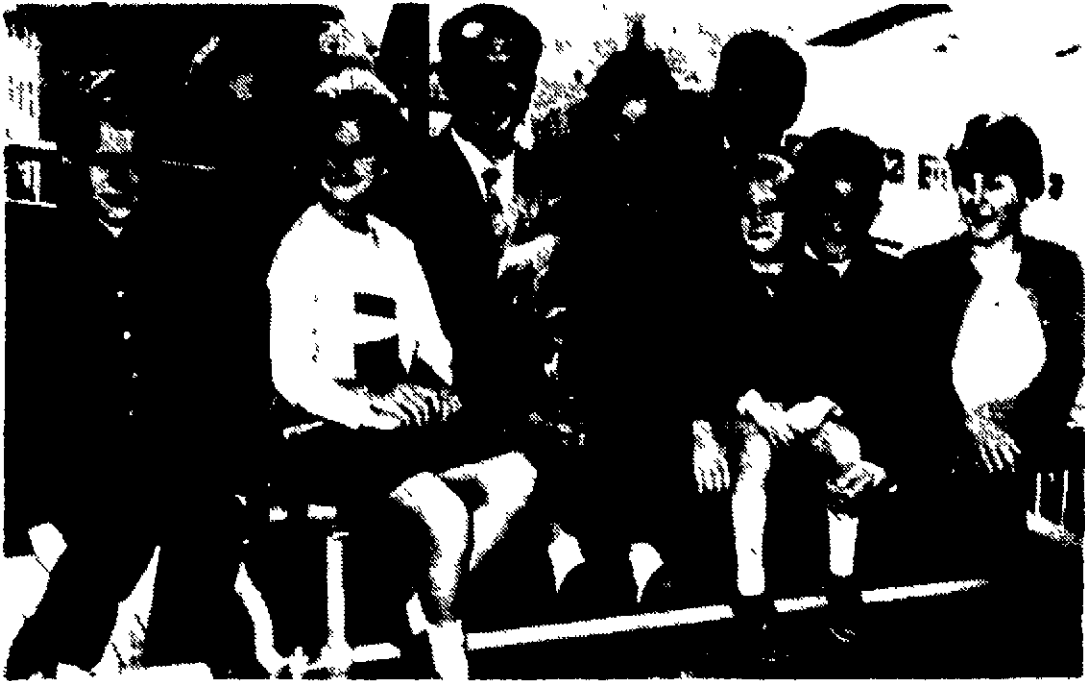

Natural Conflicts

The fund's report said that the basic cause is that modern weapons have "tended to overleap the traditional boundaries among the services" — thus bringing them naturally into conflict.

Former Air Force Secretary Thomas K Finletter said the same thing in another way when he said that interservice rivalry is a "built in" part of the present organization of the Department of Defense.

Service pressures along with pressures from other sources create major problems in the operation of the defense program. At the moment top defense officials believe the pressures are being held in check but they frankly acknowledge that they pose great dangers.

5 Ice Rinks Recommended By Committee

Kaukauna Aldermen Favor Two Major, Three Small Sites

KAUKAUNA — Members of the health and recreation committee are recommending five ice rinks in the city this year.

The recommendation calls for major rinks at 10th Street and Riverside Park and small neighborhood rinks at Lincoln Avenue, Marsh and Strassburg play areas. An extra light will be erected by the utility on the Tenth Street rink. Plans call for one-third of the Tenth Street area to be earmarked for use by smaller tots with the remainder for older children.

Warming buildings will be erected at all rinks. Members voted to discontinue the services of John Gillespie, park consultants, effective Nov. 15. The firm assisted city officials with improving parks throughout the summer.

The committee secretary was authorized to write "thank you" letters to Van Zeeland Nursery for donating evergreens to be planted in Riverside Park and to the city Girl Scout troops for tulip bulb donations.
